

Volunteer Recognition Policy

SUMNER RUNNING CLUB

The Sumner Running Club is mindful of the importance of volunteers in the continued operation of the club and looks to recognise the effort of club coaches, committee members and other club officials where it can.

- The Club encourages its members to attend coaching and officiating courses, and will advertise the availability of these courses to its members.
- The club will recognise the contribution of its coaches and officials by contributing to the costs of courses which develop their skills and benefit the club or the running of the sport.
- Suitable sports gear will be provided (as financial circumstances permit) to make coaches and club officers recognizable as key club personnel.
- The Sumner Running Club committee will agree with coaches at the time of their appointment how their contribution will be recognised. This may include such things as payment of their registration fees, koha, and payment per session or term.
- Members of the Sumner Running Club committee will have their registration fees reimbursed on completion of each year's service. The treasurer will process this reimbursement before the next year's registration period begins.
